

IDE FEARS FEELING AGAINST HIM; ASKS TRIAL CONTINUANCE

ENTERED PLEA OF "NOT GUILTY"
WHEN ARRAIGNED ON A MURDER CHARGE.

THREE ENTERED PLEAS OF GUILTY

Duan, Keating and Stiles Sentenced
This Morning By Judge
Farrand.

This morning four persons indicted by the grand jury appeared in court and entered pleas. Leo Duan, indicted on charge of obtaining money under false pretenses, pleaded guilty and was sentenced to 60 days in the county jail, to pay a fine of $1, costs of prosecution and to restore the goods. Duan had passed a worthless check for $10 on a local merchant and as the party whose name he signed did not care to push the case and as Duan had borne a good name previous to this offense, the court made a light sentence. The defendant has been in jail since January.

Stole Goods From Car.

John Keating and Bert Stiles of Peoria, entered pleas of guilty to the charge of burglary and larceny. The former was given an indeterminate sentence in the penitentiary and Stiles being under 21 years of age was given an indeterminate sentence at Pontiac.

But ten days have elapsed since the offense was committed and before the offenders will be starting the sentence imposed, as Sheriff Phillips will likely take Keating to Joliet tomorrow and on Saturday will take Stiles to Pontiac.

Ide Says Not Guilty.

Seymour Ide, indicted for murder, appeared in court with his attorney, H. A. Brooks, and entered a plea of not guilty. Attorney Brooks tried to have Attorney Edwards agree to have the case go over for the term but he was refused and Mr. Edwards asked that the court set the case for trial. Attorney Brooks stated that he did not want to try the case at the present term because of feeling in the county against defendant and stated that he would ask a change of venue. The matter will be decided later.

George Manon of Harmon, indicted on an arson charge, was taken into custody Wednesday and appeared in court with Attorney John E. Erwin, asking an extension of time before being arraigned to plead. Manon was a tenant on the Richard Long farm near Harmon and on the night of Feb. 7 the house burned to the ground. The origin of the fire was strange and an investigation was made by a state deputy fire marshal and he submitted evidence which the grand jury deemed sufficient to hold Manon as having knowledge of the fire.

GERMAN NOTE WILL BE GIVEN PRESIDENT

REPLY ON SUSSEX AND OTHER
VESSELS BEING DECIPHERED
TODAY.

(Associated Press)

Germany's note on the Sussex and other submarine cases has been received at Washington and is being deciphered. It will probably be laid before the president before night. In view of the German and Mexican situations Wilson has cancelled an engagement to speak at New York Saturday night.

Calm at Verdun.

Calm prevailed throughout the Verdun region last night, according to a Paris statement.

Russian sailing vessels Imperator, Gulfport, Miss. to Marseilles, was torpedoed. Nine of the crew were wounded. Adamson, 3000 tons, has been torpedoed.

Washington, April 13.—President Wilson still remains undecided as to what action he will take in the submarine crisis with Germany. The probability that he will resort to another note as a means of dealing with the situation in a comprehensive manner has greatly increased. There is a distinct feeling that no drastic action will be taken by the U. S. and that the crisis is again safely passed.

Secretary Lansing declined to affirm or to deny the report that another note was in contemplation. It is understood, however, that he has already gathered accumulative evidence tending to show that recent submarine attacks have jeopardized American lives and that in addition he will endeavor to obtain from Berlin a promise that merchantmen operating near the British Isles will not be sunk without warning.

Germany Will Stand Pat.

In the negotiations between Secretary Lansing and Count Von Bernstorff, the German ambassador on the recent Arabic case, Mr. Lansing pressed the point of obtaining the same guarantee for merchantmen operating in the British war zone as Germany conceded for freighters operating in the Mediterranean. Germany refused. Secretary Lansing is understood to believe that this point should now be emphasized but according to the German embassy, the imperial government will make no concessions along this line until Great Britain modifies the blockade.

Admits Sinking Four Ships.

Berlin, April 13.—The German reply to the American note concerning the sinking of five steamships contains the statement that the steamers Englishman, Eagle Point, Manchester Engineer and Berwind.

SPRING TEST OF HYDRANTS

Fire Chief Coffey is Making Rounds of the Fire Plugs.

Fire Chief Thomas Coffey has begun the spring testing of the water hydrants. Many hydrants on the north side have been found in first class condition. The water coming from hydrants on the south side of the river yesterday and this morning was very rusty and it took some time for the water to clear. This is supposed to be caused by the high pressure that was put on during the winter because of numerous fires.

LOWDEN FOR GOVERNOR

LOWDEN'S ANNOUNCEMENT.

The announcement of Col. Frank O. Lowden of his candidacy for the republican nomination for governor of Illinois appears below:

Chicago, April 12, 1916.

At the State Fair last September I stated publicly that if the sentiment favorable to my candidacy, which then existed, should continue, I would at the proper time, be a candidate for the republican nomination for governor. According to the information which I have obtained from different parts of the state, this sentiment has continued, and I have decided to become a candidate.

I shall make a vigorous, statewide campaign, but it will be a fair campaign and free from personal abuse. The voters are entitled to know my views upon questions pertaining to the administration of the state government, and I shall, from time to time, present and discuss my views upon these questions in my public speeches and in public statements.

W. H. Stead, of Ottawa, former Attorney General, will have the management of my campaign and headquarters will be opened in Chicago, in the Lumber Exchange Building. A committee of well known representative republicans, selected regardless of past or present factional alignments, will have special charge of my campaign in Cook county.

I am not, and will not be, the candidate of any faction and I will take no part in local factional contests, either in Cook county or in any other county.

I will not be a party to any slate ticket. As a candidate, I shall make no promises, either express or implied, and shall have no alliances, either direct or remote, which will embarrass the free exercise of my best judgment in discharging the duties of governor, should I be nominated and elected.

FRANK O. LOWDEN.

The diplomas awarded the three Lee county boys by the Illinois state board of agriculture, who attended the state fair last year, have been received by County Superintendent L. W. Miller. They will doubtless be highly prized by the boys, who are: George Emmert, Franklin Grove; Frank Miller, Compton and Stanley Thorpe of Pawpaw. No doubt a number of boys from schools in the county will try for the appointment to go to the school to be held during the fair this year.

CARRANZA ASKS U.S. TO WITHDRAW

SENT NOTE TO WASHINGTON TO-DAY ASKING DISOCCUPATION OF TERRITORY.

AMERICANS CONTINUE

THE PURSUIT OF VILLA WILL BE PRESSED WHILE NEGOTIA-TIONS PROCEED.

U.S. UNDER MISUNDERSTANDING?

(Associated Press)

Mexico City, Apr. 13.—A note of 5,000 words has been sent to the Carranza representative at Washington for delivery to Secretary Lansing "ending the negotiations for the reciprocal passing of troops and asking disoccupation of territory occupied by American troops in view of Villa's party having been destroyed." The note asks that the further pursuit of Villa be left to the Constitutional army.

Cites Misunderstanding

Emphasis is laid on the fact that the American expedition was undertaken under a misunderstanding. Although acting in good faith, the declaration is made, the United States had interpreted the first note of the de facto government as affecting a definite agreement between the two nations; while it was the intention of the de facto government that no expedition should be sent into Mexico until the terms and conditions relative to the agreement were defined.

Washington, Apr. 13.—The Mexican embassy has received a note from Gen. Carranza, head of the de facto government of Mexico, for presentation to Sec. Lansing asking the withdrawal of American troops from Mexico. The Carranza ambassador expects to present the note to the state department during the day.

It raises a new issue in a situation which is already much complexed and the outcome of which officials are reticent to predict until they have gone over the communication carefully and have considered what reply to make.

No Withdrawal Now.

In official quarters it is stated the American troops will not be withdrawn, at this time at least, and that while the question is being discussed with Carranza the pursuit of the Villa bandits will be rushed with renewed vigor.

Although Carranza has raised side issues, administration officials at first view of the communication, regarded the principal contention as being that the object of the punitive expedition has been accomplished, far as can be, and that the Villa bandits have been dispersed.

The war department officials take the view that they have no evidence proving the Villa bands have been dispersed.

Perfectly Justified.
The dispatch of the punitive expedition before the negotiation of the protocol was characterized by the state department officials as "perfectly justified" by the correspondence between Lansing and Carranza. Lansing has not yet received Carranza's latest communication.

To Begin Negotiations.

The state department officials took the view Carranza's note is not a demand for the immediate withdrawal of the American forces but is an invitation to begin negotiations to limit their stay.

Another Encounter.

American forces had an encounter with either the Mexican military forces or the civilian population of Parral. The Americans entered the town with the intention of marching through and an exchange of shots followed. Gen. Gutierrez, commander of Parral, minimized the affair, saying the Americans appeared unharmed and the Mexicans became alarmed.

To Protect Border.

19,000 army men on the American side of the border are being kept on edge and everything is being done to protect the border cities and towns in

AMBITION.

Ambition is the stuff that schemes. Ambition is fond of picking up human are made of, particularly political riff-raff such as cripples, orphans, ig- schemes. It is also honorable, invalids, and school- sort of mental boys, and making them into artists, which makes poets, generals, statesmen and pres- dents. Ambition, plus a small man with a receding chin, is more formid- able than a giant with a college edu- cation and a fine taste in easy chairs. Ambition is harder on content than a cat is on a mouse. It is also toler- ably hard on honesty, but it likewise eradicates laziness and shiftlessness, and when a man is suffering from a large dose of concentrated ambition he may be found in a sanitarium, but it is perfectly useless to look for him in a poorhouse.

America contains vast natural de- posits of ambition and when these were combined with immigration, the result was the United States. An Amer- ican is an Englishman plus ambi- tion. An Englishman hurries up his work so that he can have tea at four and get into his flannels. An Ameri- can hurries up his work so that he can take another man's job away from him and do it before supper time. Am- bition doesn't often make a man more pleasant to have around but it gener- ally fits with check valves, brakes and clutch-releases. But where ambi- tion takes a man and yanks him from the cradle to the tomb without giving him a day off to go out into the coun- try and hear the corn grow, it is no better than a runaway horse.

The world never gets tired of view- ing the wonders wrought by ambition.

The world was once full of slaves who toiled 19 hours a day for their cruel owners. Nowadays it is full of slaves who toil the same hours for ambition, and plan new tasks for themselves during the other five.

Ambition has filled this land full of millionaires, bankrupts, statesmen, jangled nerves, busted digestions, poor piano players and unhappy fath- ers-in-law of foreign noblemen. This indicates that ambition isn't always a good thing—which is strictly true. Ambition is a grand thing when prop- erly fitted with check valves, brakes and clutch-releases. But where ambi- tion takes a man and yanks him from the cradle to the tomb without giving him a day off to go out into the coun- try and hear the corn grow, it is no better than a runaway horse.

"The very nature of his business draws their confidence for little helpful suggestions on the matter of health. Many people have thanked me for recommending Rexall Ointment as the best relief for constipation and its resultant ills. ## GERMAN LIQUID FIRE ATTACK IS REPULSED

Little Activity in Verdun Fighting After Great Assault.

Paris, April 13.—The Germans attacked the French positions in the Bois des Carrettes, just west of Cumieres and between that village and Le Mort Homme, in the morning. Flaming liquids were used as a cover for the attack but the Germans were completely repulsed.

This was the only infantry action in the Verdun sector in the course of the day although German guns bombarded the French lines on the west side of the river, particularly hill 304, the region of Ennez and Lemort Homme constantly, and also concentrated heavy fire on the Douaumont-Vaux sector. To these bombardments the French artillery replied with vigor.

Four French counter mines were exploded in the Argonne forest, at La Fille Morte, La Haute Chacauche and Vauquois and the French occupied two mine craters in the region of Courtes Chaussees.

The war office announced in the afternoon that it had received confirmation that the German forces used in the violent attack of Tuesday afternoon in the Douaumont-Vaux sector, suffered heavy losses. There has been no resumption of the attack in this sector.

TORPEDO WAS PLAINLY SEEN

Dutch Shipping Council Reports on Sinking of Two Ships.

Amsterdam, April 13.—The Dutch shipping council which was entrusted by the government with the official investigation into the sinking of the Dutch steamship Palembang and Tubantia, has issued the report of its findings.

It gives in great detail the particulars of the facts established regarding the loss of three vessels, declares that it was impossible for them to have hit floating mines, and that two torpedoes fired at one of the ships and another torpedo fired at the other were plainly seen.

Mrs. C. E. Powell of Polo was here today.

Art Coffman was here from Polo Wednesday.

IF HAIR IS TURNING GRAY, USE SAGE TEA

Here's Grandmother's Recipe to Darken and Beautify Faded Hair.

That beautiful, even shade of dark, glossy hair can only be had by brewing a mixture of Sage Tea and Sulphur. Your hair is your charm. It makes or mars the face. When it fades, turns gray or streaked, just an application of two of Sage and Sulphur enhances its appearance a hundredfold.

Don't bother to prepare the mixture; you can get this famous old recipe improved by the addition of other ingredients for 50 cents a large bottle, all ready for use. It is called Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Compound. This can always be depended upon to bring back the natural color and lustre of your hair.

Everybody uses "Wyeth's" Sage and Sulphur Compound now because it darkens so naturally and evenly that nobody can tell it has been applied. You simply dampen a sponge or soft brush with it and draw this through the hair, taking one small strand at a time; by morning the gray hair has disappeared, and after another application it becomes beautifully dark and appears glossy and lustrous. This ready-to-use preparation is a delightful toilet requisite for those who desire dark hair and a youthful appearance. It is not intended for the cure, mitigation or prevention of disease.

DENIES PRIEST CITIZENSHIP

Belleville Pastor Fails to Have Two Qualified Witnesses.

Belleville, Ill., April 13.—Reverend Anthony Kiefer, assistant pastor of St. Luke's Church in Belleville, was denied final naturalization papers in the circuit court in Belleville, by Judge Benjamin Pope, because one of his witnesses, a brother priest, testified that he had not seen Father Kiefer personally in four years, although he had corresponded with him.

The law requires two witnesses to swear that the applicant has lived in the United States five years. Judge Pope expressed regret, and urged Rev. Kiefer to try again.

LOWDEN FOREVER.

Col. Frank O. Lowden of Oregon, Illinois, a neighbor of the city of Dixon, has announced himself as a candidate for the republican nomination for governor of Illinois. Politicians with a state-wide knowledge of the conditions of things say that there is a greater demand for Lowden for governor than there ever has been for any candidate in the history of Illinois and that the demand is a call from the people—from the masses, and that the call is a real and honest call. Col. Lowden does not say in his announcement that there ever has been for any candidate in the history of Illinois and nouncement, which appears upon the front page of this issue, he modestly states that there is a sentiment favoring his candidacy.

Col. Lowden frankly states that he wants the office. Well, the people want him to have the office and the office needs him, so that ought to be a combination impossible to beat. The Colonel is going to make a vigorous campaign, and the Colonel knows how to campaign. The democrats might as well save their time and money and make it unanimous, for Col. Lowden will roll up the biggest popular vote for a candidate in the history of Illinois if present indications are anything to go by.

He has the enmity of Deneen and the Chicago papers, which is another good point in his favor. In fact one might say two good points in his favor. Northern Illinois is practically unanimous for Lowden, but that is to be expected. What is more interesting is that central Illinois and southern Illinois are doing their best to outdo northern Illinois in its enthusiasm for the Ogle county farmer. And the enthusiasm is not among a lot of professional politicians; it is among the plain and common people of the farm and the shop and the office. It is among the voters themselves and the reason it is there is because Colonel Frank O. Lowden is known by them for his true worth. They know him to be the one man in Illinois whom they want for the highest position in their gift. They know him to be a brilliant and brainy statesman, an honorable gentleman, a business man of successful experience and a man who is fully worthy in every way to be elevated to the dignity and honor of the governorship of this great state. He is a clear thinker and a right thinker.

Lowden's friends are legion and they are the kind of friends who believe in him through all time. The number of people who have been clamoring for his candidacy since last summer is sufficient "recommendation." His friends have not forgotten the tense hours of the famous deadlock at Springfield when Lowden was a candidate for governor before and 78 ballots were taken and Lowden looked like a winner until Yates hauled down his flag and went over to the Deneen forces, nominating Deneen on the 79th ballot. They have not forgotten the details of that little affair and again they raise the cry that was the battle cry of 1904 and say, "Lowden Forever."

Daddy's Bedtime Story

How Three Dogs Sat on Some Boxes.

He Filled His Pockets With Gold.

[Adapted from Hans Christian Andersen.]

"O H, daddy, tell us a witch story, please?" cried Jack and Evelyn.

"When a soldier slid down the hollow trunk of a tree, just as an old witch warned him, he found himself in a wide passage with bright lights blazing all around. He opened the first door he saw, and, sure enough, there on a box sat a dog with eyes as big as saucers staring at him. But he was not afraid, for the old witch had given him her apron to put the dog on. 'You're a nice fellow,' said the soldier, and he lifted the dog right onto the apron and helped himself to as many pennies as he could cram in his pockets. Then he shut the box, put the dog back on top of it and went into the next room. There on a box sat a dog with eyes big as millstones.

"Don't stare at me so hard. You might get a pain in your eyes," said the soldier. So he put the dog on the witch's apron, and when he saw that the box was filled with silver he threw away all the coppers he had stuffed his pockets with and filled his pockets, his knapsack and his cap with silver. Then he went into the third room. How terrible! The dog there really had eyes as big as the round tower, and they rolled around and around like wheels.

"Good evening," said the soldier politely, saluting him. He had never seen such a dog before. But he lifted him carefully and sat him down on the witch's apron. Then he opened the box. What a lot of gold! He could buy out the whole city with it, all the sugar pigs from the cake women and all the tin soldiers, whips and rocking horses in the world. So the soldier threw away all the silver he had and filled his pockets, his cap and his knapsack with gold. He even filled his boots with it, so that it hurt him when he walked.

"So he put the dog back on the chest, shut the door and climbed up the hollow tree. 'Pull me up, old witch!'

"Have you got my grandmother's tinder box?" she shouted back.

"The tinder box was quite what the old witch had sent the soldier for, you see, and he had forgotten it. So he went back to get it, and the old witch pulled him up. There he was standing in the road with his pockets, knapsack, cap and boots full of bright, yellow gold!

"What do you want the tinder box for?" he asked the old witch, handing it to her.

"That's not your business. You've got the gold; give me the box!"

"Rubbish! Tell me or I will cut off your head with my sword!" he told her.

"I won't," she cried. Then the soldier cut off her head, tied all his money up in her apron, put the tinder box in his pocket and marched off to town."

R. H. DAVIS DIES HOLDING PHONE

Noted Writer's Body Is Found by His Wife.

LATELY WAS AT BALKAN FRONT

Mr. Davis had been in failing health for some time and had sought quiet at his country place, Cross Roads farm, under the care of his wife, who was Leslie McCoy, an actress.

Lately Back from War Zone.

Mr. Davis returned to his home several weeks ago from the Balkan war zone.

Davis was war correspondent in the Turko-Greek war, the South African Boer war and the Russo-Japanese war. He wrote many books, his war experiences affording much of the atmosphere in which he wrote.

Made Long Distance Proposal.

Mr. Davis married Cecil Clark, the Chicago artist, daughter of John M. Clark, former president of the Chicago Telephone company, in 1899. The marriage was dissolved in 1912. Mr. Davis was in London when he proposed marriage. He sent the engagement ring by messenger across the ocean.

July 8, 1912, Davis married Miss Elizabeth McCoy, the "Bessie McCoy" who made famous the "Yama Yama Girl" song in Chicago. A daughter, Hope Davis, was born.

Make The HOME Look New

A few new pieces of furniture will change the whole appearance of the home; some new draperies, portiers and rugs will work marvels; new linoleums add to the comfort and pleasure of living and make the housework lighter. A new 1916 "Hoosier" kitchen cabinet will give you many hours of recreation, will free you from kitchen toil. An "Automatic" refrigerator is a good investment, too. We urge your visit of inspection to our store at an early date. Come and look around; pick out what you need; we will deliver on the very day you want your goods.

GRAVE THREAT MADE GERMANY

Rumored President Plans Writing Kaiser New Note.

VALE was destroyed by German submarines. Evidence is presented to show that these vessels were torpedoed legally in accordance with the rules of war.

The note says that a German submarine torpedoed a steamship in the vicinity of the place at which the steamship Sussex was damaged by an explosion, but that evidence at hand indicates that the vessel torpedoed by the submarine was not the Sussex.

Commander Made Sketch.

In regard to the Sussex, the note says that only one German submarine was in the vicinity and that it torpedoed one steamship. The commander of the submarine made a sketch at the time. This sketch has been compared with a photograph of the Sussex. In the way of corroboration it is said that German naval forces destroyed twenty-six floating mines on that day.

Disregarded Signals to Stop.

Regarding the cases of the Englishman, the Manchester Engineer, the Eagle Point and the Berwindvale, it is said they were signaled to halt, but disregarded the signals. Thereupon warning shots were fired.

Says Britain Plants Mines.

Berlin, April 13.—The Overseas News agency gave out a statement in which naval authorities accused the British of planting mines off the Dutch coast, in the area in which Germany had agreed not to put any mine fields.

KILL AMERICANS IN SONORA RAIDS

U. S. Citizens Slain Near Guaymas; Cruiser on Way.

SIERRA MOJADA IS SACKED

part of any untoward move on the part of the Carranza troops, in view of the latest note to Washington. It is not believed Carranza would have presented the note without having made military preparations in keeping with the exigencies of the situation.

San Diego, Cal., April 13.—Several Americans have been killed or wounded in bandit raids in the vicinity of Guaymas, Sonora, according to a naval radio message received here.

The message was forwarded to the navy department at Washington and resulted in an order to the cruiser Denver, now at San Blas, state of Tepic, to steam for the Sonora seaport and investigate.

Bandits Sack Town.

El Paso, April 13.—A body of Villistas, numbering several hundred and possibly 1,000, has sacked Sierra Mojada, five miles across the Coahuila line and eighty miles east of Limoz, destroying many thousands of dollars worth of American property and looting the town of everything of value.

This news, which may prove to be of the highest importance, as it is believed possible Villa himself was among the raiders, was received here by the representatives of one of the largest American mining concerns in Mexico, and is accepted by him as absolutely authentic.

The bandits made their attack on the town April 5.

Villistas Poison Streams.

El Paso, April 13.—Cyanide of potassium, one of the deadliest of poisons, was found in many of the small streams in the Sierra Madre when the American forces first marched through that section on the hunt for Pancho Villa and his bandits. Carcasses of dead animals had also been dragged into many of the water courses to contaminate the water. This information was confirmed by a chemist who accompanied the American troops on their expedition for the purpose of analyzing the water. The cyanide of potassium was found in one stream in such amount as to have killed every man in the expedition if the soldiers had drank of the water before analysis had been made.

In several other places traces of the poison were located. Several mining companies in the region reported thefts of this deadly poison from their concentrating plants, either by the Villa bandits or by the Mexican natives whom Villa had excited into the belief that the Americans were coming to kill and rob them.

Dead Animals in Streams.

"In several instances," said the chemist, "the soldiers were forced to drink water trickling down a small stream over the decaying carcass of a horse or a cow. Analysis showed the water to be free from germs or poisons dangerous to the health of the men, so they drank it without complaint for a thirsty man will drink anything rather than suffer the pangs of thirst, the worst torture the human body can stand."

Lately he said no poisoned streams had been encountered, neither had the men found the streams contaminated by the carcasses of dead animals.

Report 70 Villistas Killed.

Torreon, Mex., April 13.—Details of a five-hour battle between the Carranza garrison at Pasaje, Durango, and an attacking force composed of Contreras and Ceniceros bandits, were brought here. The outlaws fled in disorders into the hills of the Nazas district after losing seventy killed. It is reported. The Carranza troops had four dead. The battle took place Sunday.

A doctor sent from here to treat some of the men wounded in the battle brought back the details of the engagement. He said that the Contreras and Ceniceros attackers were subjected to withering fire from the garrison. They fled in disorder. He arrived in time to count the bodies of seventy of the outlaws scattered over the battle ground. Among the dead were a colonel and a captain.

Villa Hunt Costs Over Million.
Washington, April 13.—More than $1,000,000 has been spent thus far by the United States in its hunt for Pancho Villa. The war department estimated the monthly cost over and above regular running expenses has been $100,000, while $300,000 has been spent for auto trucks and gasoline tank cars.

Says Villa Loses His Followers.

Washington, April 13.—General Obregon, Carranza's minister of war, notified the embassy here that reports from Gen. Luis Gutierrez in Chihuahua say that Villa has lost most of his followers, was wounded in the battle of Cieneguilla and has gone into the mountains.

Cargo of Appam Is Sold.

Newport News, Va., April 13.—The cargo of the German prize ship Appam was sold here under court order by federal authorities because of its perishable nature. The sale went off all day. More than $500,000 worth of tobacco, cotton seed and corn was sold.

ROOSEVELT HAS FOUR
ILLINOIS DELEGATES

Harlan Won in Cook County but Lost Downstate.

Chicago, April 13.—A Sherman solid delegation from Illinois is broken by the election of City Clerk John Siman and City Treasurer Charles H. Sengal as district delegates to the Republican national convention. They will vote for Colonel Roosevelt. In the Jacksonville district State Treasurer Andrew J. Russell and his colleague, running unpledged, broke the Sherman slate.

John Maynard Harlan, Roosevelt man, got a larger vote in Chicago and Cook county than Mayor Thompson running ahead of four on the Sherman slate, but he was defeated by the downstate vote.

Roger C. Sullivan and his followers in the democracy cleaned the slate controlling state, county and the national delegation to the St. Louis convention.

Runaway Kills Aged Pastor.

Minneapolis, April 13.—Reverend David Holmgren, seventy years old pastor of the First Scandinavian Unitarian church and at one time a member of the Swedish riksdag, is dead from injuries sustained when trampled by a runaway horse.

BRITISH NOTE INSUFFICIENT

Answer on Seizure of Austrians Does Not Cover the Ground.

Washington, April 13.—Secretary Lansing announced that Great Britain's note on the seizure of thirty-eight Austrians, Germans and Turks from the American steamer China near Shanghai does not close the case to the satisfaction of the United States.

Scholars Barred from Belgium.

Amsterdam, April 13.—Messages from Brussels says that Henri Piercenne, noted Belgian historian, and Paul Fredericq, professor of Flemish at Ghent university, have been deported to Germany owing to their refusal to lecture in Ghent university under German supervision.

A Story of Mountain Railroad Life

By FRANK H. SPEARMAN

AUTHOR OF "WHISPERING SMITH," "THE MOUNTAIN DIVIDE," "STRATEGY OF GREAT RAILROADS," ETC.

NOVELIZED FROM THE MOVING PICTURE PLAY OF THE SAME NAME. PRODUCED BY THE SIGNAL FILM CORPORATION. COPYRIGHT, 1915, BY FRANK H. SPEARMAN.

SYNOPSIS.

Little Helen Holmes, daughter of General Holmes, railroad man, is rescued from imminent danger on a scene railroad, by George Storm, a newsboy. Grown to young womanhood Helen makes a spectacular double rescue of Storm, now a freight fireman, and of her father and his friends, Amos Rhinelander, financier, and Robert Seagrue, promoter, from a threatened collision between a passenger train and a runaway freight.

Late in the day, when walking past the doors of the library, he saw Holmes, finishing a conference with Rhinelander, once more roll up an important document and place it within his safe, set inside the library wall. Seagrue knew too well what it was—the survey of the cut-off, the building of which, by crippling him financially, was likely to wreck his hopes of a career.

It was in this sullen mood that Capelle, a few moments later, encountered him. They had been partners in more than one unscrupulous enterprise and had learned to set value on audacity. A guarded discussion followed. Seagrue moodily rejected one after another of the suggestions of the resourceful Capelle, until one star-

At its close the two separated. Shortly afterward, Capelle, in Seagrue's motor car, started rapidly for the city.

At nearly twelve o'clock that night—some time after the house was quiet—Seagrue, leaving his room, went down to the library. He unlocked the terrace doors. Capelle's men were outside. They entered and Seagrue led them before the safe. The criminal expert of the pair made hardly more than a pretense of dropping the tumbler for an opening. He had come prepared for any eventuality, and the moment he saw the mechanism of the lock was unassailable he directed his companion, Hyde, to connect up the drills; his orders from Capelle were to open the safe.

Upstairs, Helen, in slumber, was half-awakened by a whistle signal. Storm was bringing a freight train down the hill to wait for the midnight flyer. The rumble of passing trains rarely disturbed her. This night a much lighter but an unusual sound woke her completely. She sat up a moment, listening. It seemed close—someone was in the house. Turning on a light and dressing hastily, Helen it could be. The two criminals had entered Helen's room. The instant she stepped in from the balcony they caught and overpowered her—stuffed her screams, and in spite of her continuing struggles, rudely gagged her.

The bell again attracted Storm's attention, and he was puzzled to determine what it might mean. Looking toward Helen's home he saw a bright light in one of the upper windows. Then, of a sudden, he saw more—silhouetted against the pane, a woman and a man were struggling. He alarmed the crew and ran swiftly up the hill for General Holmes' house.

In the interval, leaving Helen helpless, the safe-blowers descended the stairs. Holmes and Rhinelander had likewise been awakened by the muffled sounds of the struggle and the two appeared in the upper hall. Seagrue joined them and with his uncle hurried into Helen's room, where she was trying to release herself. But her father, turning downstairs, had interrupted the two safe-blowers at the very library door. The old soldier was no match for the two men, but he tackled them together. He had hardly begun to fight when he was struck down by a black-jack and the two thugs, survey in hand, made their escape. They crossed the lawn, gained the shrubbery close to the gate, and in the distance saw the headlight of the midnight passenger train. Signal was not one of its stops, but the safe-blowers ran hard for the station and taking a long chance for their getaway they recklessly but safely boarded the running train as it slowed somewhat for the bridge.

In the confusion within the household Helen had been released. She had hysterically told her story and as she and her friends rushed downstairs she encountered Storm, who had helped her dazed father to a chair. "Are you hurt, daddy?" asked his daughter anxiously.

"No," he cried, "and I've given one of them a jolt he'll remember. But Helen!"—in his agitation he laid his hand heavily on his daughter's shoulder—"those damned scoundrels have got our survey!"

"Then they shall never get off with it," exclaimed Helen with flashing eyes. "We will catch them if it kills somebody."

She gave her orders right and left—for caring for her father, calling the police and for making the pursuit.

The boarding of the moving passenger train by the two men had not escaped Storm's eyes, and a few words with Helen were enough to clear things. The flyer was gone and the burglars with it, but there was a chance yet to get them. Hastening with Storm down the hill, Helen told him the whole story. When the two reached the siding Storm asked the conductor to put out a flagman to protect the freight; he half lifted and half pushed Helen up into the cab, and the instant the fireman cut off the engine, started in pursuit of the fast-receding passenger train.

But the stern chase is the long chase. The freight engineer had set himself a difficult task; one thing alone was in his favor, everything else was against him. He was running a light engine against one pulling a strong string of sleeping cars. But his own machine was built for traction, not for speed, and he was pitting it against one of the fastest types of engines on the division. From the time Storm opened the throttle not a device was left untried to make his ponderous engine go fast; not a trick of all those that had already made his reputation as an exceptional runner was now overlooked and every resource of the engineer's art was brought into play to overhaul the flying passenger train.

Helen crouched on the fireman's box with her eyes straining ahead into the darkness, or glancing across the hooded lights of the cab at the profile of the silent engineer, waited in vain for him to look toward her. It seemed as if he had forgotten her existence. His attention, for the moment, was centered on nothing but the terrific headway he had attained and must maintain to win, and his reeling, thundering machine seemed awake to the relentless energy of its driver, was responding like a thing alive to his iron will. A cry from Storm made her look across toward him. She saw his eyes regarding her, but he was pointing silently ahead, and looking again through her own window, Helen's straining vision caught far ahead the faint gleam of the red tail-lights.

From the top of the distant sleeping cars Spike and Hyde had seen the threatening chase. Without a qualm, and crawling along the swaying cars, they made their way toward the engine. They held up the engineer and fireman. Spike understood enough of an engine to take the throttle and he tried to run away from Storm; but this proved a game in which he had no advantage. Striving desperately to increase his speed he found himself, as he glanced back from the cab window, steadily losing ground. The race was now more like the effort of a plow horse to run away from a thoroughbred. A last resort remained for the criminals. Hyde, at Spike's direction, climbed back over the tender and cut off the coaches. The engine pulled away from the train. The air went on and the string of sleepers stopped abruptly. Close behind them the freight engine was pounding and lurching. Storm had barely time to apply his air and pull up as he stopped and he was nearly into the hind-end of the observation car.

When the passenger crew got outside there were hurried explanations. Storm, knowing every foot of the line, saw that they had reached the longest passing track on the division and that by running around the stalled train he still had a chance to overtake his quarry. Throwing his engine into reverse he backed down, took the passing-track switch and tore past the standing cars after the fast disappearing passenger train. With all of its lights extinguished, and still maintaining terrific speed, it was at a hopeless disadvantage against the skill of the man at the throttle of the engine behind.

Overhauled and with defeat in sight as the nose of the huge freight engine crowded them, Hyde from the gangway and Spike, turning from the useless throttle, opened fire with their pistols on their pursuers. Hyde, firing his last shot without effect, in his rage, hurled his heavy gun back at the other cab. It crashed through the window where Helen had sat an instant before, but she was now up and back over the engine tank. As Storm drew steadily abreast of the runaway, she watched her chance and with reckless daring sprang from where she stood over to the tank of the passenger engine. The safe-blowers turned to meet her. Stack and stack the engines were rushing toward the little San Pablo bridge. But with Spike's and Hyde's attention turned from the passive engineer and fireman in the cab, they were suddenly attacked by both from behind. A furious mixup followed. Hyde, as Helen jumped down at him, grappled with her. Storm, eager in the jumping gangway opposite them, saw her peril. Catching up a wrench he hurled it with all his force at Hyde's head; it flew true and the thug sank under the heavy blow like a bullock. Spike in the interval, tearing loose from his assailants, gained the foot-plate and leaping up on the coal delfed them.

It was for no more than a moment; the engineer went pluckily after him. Cornered, Spike looked ahead. They were reaching the river and the engines were making a dizzy speed. With the recklessness of a madman the criminal leaped from the tender far out into the stream below. The slightest miscalculation—a mistake of a tenth of a second in his reckoning—would have cost him his life. Yet he made his jump without injury, struck out for shore and gained the river bank.

Escape was first in his thoughts. He remembered the stolen survey in his pocket. On the safety of this, his money from Capelle depended and his first act was to secrete it near where he landed.

The two engines in this time had been brought to a stop and backed to the bridge. "Get after the man that jumped," cried Helen. "We must find him. Take both banks of the river."

With one of the firemen left to guard Hyde, Storm and the other fireman hurried down one river bank as the passenger engineer took the other. Neither side afforded more than a slight chance of concealment and Spike, starting from where he had cached his stolen document, was pounced on by Storm's fireman. But Spike, a powerful man, had almost fought out for himself a second chance for escape when Storm bore him down to the earth. Helen ran up. "Where's what you have stolen?" she cried furiously as Spike stood prisoner. Storm,

She Ran Out on the Balcony.

without loss of time, searched him. "You've stolen our survey," exclaimed Helen wrathfully. "Where is it?"

Spike shrugged his shoulders. "I don't know what you're talking about," he muttered. "What do you fellows want with me, anyway?" he demanded, looking from one to the other of the two men, impudently.

They dragged him to the freight engine and with Storm directing, both engines started back to the passenger train. The freight engine sounded a greeting to the crew of the stranded flyer, and Storm and Helen clattered past to their own deserted train. With Storm speeding up at his throttle Helen soon saw the semaphore of Signal station and with the two prisoners, Storm and his fireman returned with Helen to the house.

Police officers were already in charge and the safe-blowers were turned over to them. Helen, agitated and anxious, was met at the door of the library by Amos Rhinelander. His face was grave. With a keen, questioning look her father's friend laid his hand tenderly on her arm as she attempted to enter the room. "Stop, Helen," he said in a constrained tone. "Don't go in there just now."

Storm stood near. She would have pushed past Rhinelander, but again he opposed her entrance. "And where is father?" she exclaimed as if a sudden realization had come upon her.

"My child," Rhinelander took her within his arm, "we are under the orders of the police. Nothing in the library must be disturbed."

An awful suspicion gripped her heart. "Father," she exclaimed intensely. "He was hurt. Where is he?"

Rhinelander, avoiding her glance directed into the half-darkened room, motioned significantly to Storm. The engineer understood; but it was too late. Slipping with the strength and speed of a fawn from between the two men, Helen darted into the library. Those of the fated household heard in the night an agonizing cry; it rang far. She had found her father all too soon and had thrown herself beside his dead body, where it had been placed on the couch beside the fireplace.

Thus perished by the hand of a wretched criminal—a mere fleck of the scum of our civilization—this man who had himself, and alone, discovered the first railroad pass over the Continental Divide.

Seagrue's ears echoed long with a memory of that cry. Standing beside his captured confederates he asked himself whether the price had not, after all, been too high.

But Spike, insensible to all but his criminal instincts, drew close beside him and asked him, unobserved, for a pencil. But for the fear that his own neck might be jeopardized by an exposure, Seagrue would have had done with his two murderous tools then and there, but he had put himself in their power and dare not refuse. Spike, tled him into anger. He balked inconspicuously. "I won't stand for safe blowing," he muttered.

"Nothing of the kind suggested," returned Capelle, undaunted. And with the winning smile that marked his face in argument, he continued: "I'll have two good men here by 11:30 tonight, if you say the word. One of them can open a safe by the mere click of the tumblers. All we want out of it is a copy of the cut-off survey. If we can get hold of that we can get hold of their right of way—most of it must come from Washington—before Holmes knows what's going on. I'll make the copy of their survey myself and return the original to the safe before morning with no one a bit the wiser. Why, see here! You're staying right in the house. All you have to do is to let them in tonight. Are you game? Or are you a whipped dog right now?"

Seagrue listened with set face. The low-toned conference lasted longer.

opened the hall door of her room.

She had been careful not to make the slightest noise in her movements. Unfortunately the light behind her silhouetted her figure on the floor at the foot of the broad flight of stairs Spike, keen-eyed, in the library, saw it. He touched Hyde. "Douse it!" he muttered. Hyde extinguished the light. The two paused, listened, walked into the hall and paused again. Then they started noiselessly up the stairs.

Guarded as they had been, Helen felt their presence. With fast-beating heart she ran to her window. Out in the night she could see the light of a torch. It was Storm's light, carried as he worked around his engine. Catching up a small serving bell she ran out on her balcony and tying the bell to the telephone wire that connected with the main line wires, she started the jingling messenger off for help.

The fireman, busy with his work, presently heard the slight jingle, but only to wonder for a moment what

WOMEN THREATEN TO POLICE MATTOON, ILL.

Declare Mayor or Blind Pigs Must Get Out.

Mattoon, Ill., April 13.—Mattoon faces the possibility of a police force composed entirely of women.

Since the local option election the "drys" have demanded that the law with regard to bootlegging be enforced to the limit. "Suspect" notices have been sent out to thirty-five property owners whose tenants, the police say, are illegally selling liquor. The property owners have been asked to oust their tenants immediately.

If this effort on the part of the police fails, Mayor Bell has consented to turn the matter over to the women of the "dry" faction, for them to act as they wish in regard to the proposed clean-up.

In the event the women take charge a prominent society woman in all likelihood will be named "chief" of the moral squad.

The "drys" have served notice on Mayor Bell that unless he gives orders to his police department to stamp out bootlegging he will be ousted and one of their number will be chosen in his stead. Before the election it was charged in the city council that forty-five bootlegging joints existed in Mattoon.

OLDEST MONTICELLO GRAD.

Mrs. Virginia Herbert Attends Cornerstone Laying at Godfrey. Jerseyville, Ill., April 13.—Mrs. Virginia Herbert of Jerseyville, the oldest living graduate of Monticello Seminary, at Godfrey, was present at the laying of the corner stone of the new academic building, which is being built at a cost of $60,000.

Mrs. Herbert was a student of Miss Forbes, the first principal of the school, for whom the new building will be named.

City Near Bankruptcy. Canton, Ill., April 13.—The finances of the city of Canton are in such a deplorable condition that a special tax is being considered. Bills against the city have remained unpaid for two years, and the debt is about $57,000, in addition to a large overdraft on the local banks.

Finds Mastodon's Tooth. Belvidere, Ill., April 13.—The tooth of a mastodon, found on the bank of Beaver creek by Richard Heywood, weighs eight pounds and is nine and one-half inches long. It is well preserved, though blackened from long burial.

Shorten Drinking Hours. Rock Island, Ill., April 13.—As a result of the large influx of drinkers from adjoining dry territory, the Rock Island municipal commission has ordered bars and cafes here to close at 11 p. m. instead of 12.

Colt Kicks Child to Death. Ottawa, Ill., April 13.—Edward McGinnis, two years old, son of Mr. and Mrs. William McGinnis of Geer Park, was found dead by his mother in a pasture lot. The child had been kicked to death by a colt.

Gives Up Death Probe. Alton, Ill., April 13.—Charles Kroener of Detroit, who was in Alton investigating the mysterious death of Miss Elizabeth Hauck, has given up all hope of solving the mystery.

Anthrax Patient Recovers. Huntley, Ill., April 13.—Ben Van Vleet has recovered from an attack of anthrax. Efforts to discover where or how he contracted the disease were futile.

Postal Savings Bank Discontinued. Pecatonica, Ill., April 13.—The postal savings bank has been discontinued here because of lack of patronage.

DONT DELAY

SOME DIXON PEOPLE HAVE LENA, Some Dixon People Have Learned That Neglect Is Dangerous

The slightest symptom of kidney trouble is far too serious to be overlooked. It's the small, neglected troubles that so often lead to serious kidney ailments. That pain in the "small" of your back, that arising irregularly; those headaches and dizzy spells; that weak weary, wailing feeling, may be nature's warning of kidney weakness. Why risk your life by neglecting a case system? Reach the cause of the trouble while there yet is time—begin treating your kidneys at once with a reliable and proven kidney remedy. No need to experiment—Doan's Kidney Pills have been successfully used in thousands of cases of kidney trouble for over 50 years. Doan's Kidney Pills are used and recommended throughout the civilized world. Endorsed at home. Read Dixon testimony.

Mrs. W. Hipple, 1121 W. Seventy street, Dixon, says: "I have used Doan's Kidney Pills and have found them of great help for kidney trouble and backache. One box is all that I need to remove any lameness or soreness in my back."

Price 50c at all dealers. Don't simply ask for a kidney remedy—get Doan's Kidney Pills—the same that Mrs. Hipple had. Foster-Milburn Co., Props., Buffalo, N. Y.

Making a Reamer Cut Oversize.
When a smooth round hole of small diameter is required a hand reamer is used to produce it, and many times the reamer is from .001 to .004 undersize, says Popular Mechanics. The reamer may be made to work effectively in the following manner: With a scraper made of a medium size half round file burnish the face of each flute with the oval side. This will raise an edge and cause the reamer to cut larger, the size depending on how long and hard the faces are burnished. This, of course, does not make a permanent edge, but it does very nicely in an emergency.

Advice to Motorists.
Never open the throttle too quickly but give the motor a chance to pick up gradually.
Keep your brakes adjusted.
Familiarize yourself with the use of the hand lever brake and thus be prepared for emergencies.
Be sure to release the clutch before shifting gear.
Don't accelerate too quickly. This causes the car to jump and the motor to pound.
Should you detect any unusual noise while running, stop and investigate the cause at once.

Sea Lion Hides For Leather.
On account of the growing demand for leather, by reason of war conditions, the hunting of sea lions and the use of sea lion hides for leather are proposed as new industries for the Canadian Pacific coast. It is reported that a factory in British Columbia has made some excellent gloves, belting and other leather articles from sea lion hides.—Commerce Reports.

Use of Tire Chains.
When installing tire chains it is not advisable to have them too tight. If the chains are held in a fixed position the tread of the tire is apt to be loosened at these points. If the chain is slightly loose it will work around to different positions and cause less injury to the tread.

Mystery Woman in St. Louis Sues for Divorce.

St. Louis, April 13.—Christina Thaw, a St. Louis woman, filed suit for divorce from Harry K. Thaw in the circuit court here, asking support and maintenance and the custody of their daughter, twelve years old.

The petition states that the plaintiff and Thaw were married in Buffalo Oct. 6, 1902, went to New York the following day, where they resided at the Savoy hotel and later in an apartment at 267 Houston street. She came to St. Louis Dec. 2, 1903.

The petition states the daughter was born here and that Thaw has taken her away to parts unknown to the plaintiff. Her attorney, Verne R. C. Lacy, says Thaw's mother and the Countess of Yarmouth visited St. Louis and saw the baby.

The attorney said Thaw used the name Harry Kendall Thaw Clemmens when he married Evelyn Nesbit, who is playing here, says she never heard of the woman.

The Murjek was bound from Philadelphia to Narvik. The steamship was comparatively new, having been built in 1913, and hailed from Stockholm.
